

HYOUKA

Handles Adorned with One-of-a-kind Porcelain-glazed Blooming Blossoms

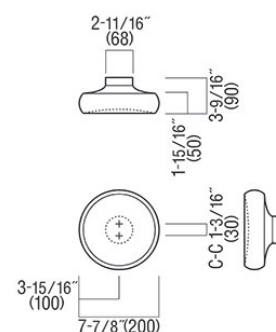

In a kiln in Kyoto operating for over 100 years, a technique called “Hanakessho” (flower crystals) has been developed recently using a crystalline glaze. This original technique creates crystal formations resembling flowers that float up on the surface of the container. The door handles, crafted to fit comfortably in the hand and finished round on a potter’s wheel, showcase the beautiful blossoms brought forth by “Hanakessho.” They feature a minimal design with an elegant brass base.
